-The following letters remain un-called for at the Oregon postoffice: J. R. Adney, Louis Betz, John H. Crawford, David Crenshaw, George Davis, John Henry, A. C. Hinton, G. H. Irwin, Henrietta Jackson, Gertie Messinger, C. P. Phillips, Jacob Seiders, Benj. Shobern, John W. Pitzer, Wesley Wormer, and postals due to Dr. B. Conover, Mrs. Olin Harden.

-Your public conduct, my boy, is the outward showing of your manliness. If you would be looked upon with favor guard well your manner. I noticed your very bad behavior at church the other night. It was not a fit tribute to your raising. It was not smart; your whisper and giggle, neither was it funny. The church, my son, is a place of worship, and not the place to go when you want to giggle and laugh. You should remember that it makes for you a bad name, shows a deficient culture, and places you below the level of respectability. I would not say to you, my boy, "stay away from church," but I say to you go! Behave in a becoming manner, listen to the word of God as it flows to you from the mouth of a sincere worker in God's vineyard. Take it in; study it; ponder over the text; read it and reflect. Go, but by all means, my son, keep away from that element of disgraceful youth who remain in the back part of the house and sneer - Prowler, the Parson.

-Reading the Law" is the title of the next Sunday school lesson: Great assemblies are valuable opportunities for raising enthusiasm and deepening impressions - Children understand far more of Bible truth than some suppose, and should be taken where they can hear it - Preaching may be plain and faithful, and yet it will do as little good as if we fail to give earnest and reverent attention - He who makes it a rule to begin Bible reading and study with prayer, will be sure to find the Word sweet and profitable and plain - It is the "sense" of Scripture, not human opinions, for which we should go to church and Sabbath school; and we should be most ready to praise the preacher and teacher who gives us the most of that - Grief for sin always goes before true joy in the Lord; and, joined with faith in the divine promises, is sure to be followed by it - That joy of the Lord which is as a fortress for its possessor, is never selfish. It would share the gifts and grace of God with others.

-From Stone River to Atlanta.

-A complimentary lecture from "Stone River to Atlanta," will be delivered by U. M. Greene, at the Christian church next Wednesday evening, March 10th. No admission fee will be charged. -On Sunday evening of last week, one of our pedagogues, J. C. Morris, concluded he would make a visit to his "best girl." On arriving at his destination, he tied his horse to the fence. About midnight he bid his lady love good night and started for home. But his horse was gone. He looked for him for about half an hour and gave up the search in despair, concluding the animal had been stolen. J. C. immediately offered a reward of $2.00 for the recovery of the horse. The horse was found the next day by his brother John, tied to the fence not far from the residence of his lady love. John claimed his reward, which was promptly paid.

-On Wednesday evening of last week, in accordance with engagement, little Cora Fry, of this city, made her debut before a St. Joseph audience, on the occasion of the annual Camp Fire, of Lincoln Camp Sons of Veterans.

The St. Joseph Sunday Visitors speaks of her recitation as follows: The third number was a recitation by Little Cora Fry, of "Sheridan's Ride." This little magnet more than met the expectations of the audience, for in every point of elocutionary power she was perfectly at home - in voice, gesture, articulation and expression, she certainly has no superior anywhere. She is truly a prodigy. While the Sunday Visitors pays this just compliment to this little wonder, we would add that she fully sustained her well earned reputation throughout her efforts of the evening. The entertainment given by this Camp was one of the finest we have attended, and we have attended many. Every number was a gem within itself, and was well worth the price of admission alone. The program was of the highest order both as to musical and literary makeup. The young men composing Lincoln Camp Sons of Veterans have reason to congratulate themselves on being able to present such a brilliant program - the Deacon of the SENTINEL was more than repaid for his journey to St. Joseph to witness this entertainment, and we trust we may be able to attend many more just such.

A. Dankers, Esq., and bestowed gifts and mementoes, of which he can be justly proud. The evening was passed at the usual games interspersed by an occasional waltz or quadrille. Among those present were Misses Ida Collier, Cora Thomas, Laura Kirkland, Doris Collier, Emma Christen, Ida Mullican, Hettie Kirkland, and Messrs. Wm. Shuster, Charles Thomas, L. Cammies, Wes. Williams, John Keith, Andrew Walters, Alvaro Kirkland, Charles Collier, Otto Scheele, Frank Collier, Ernest Scheele, William Kirkland, Len Walters and George Scheele.

-There is a ray of encouragement from Ohio, Judge Wyle, a Democrat, has decided, that Daniel Dalton, clerk of the court in Hamilton County, who refuses to obey the Assembly's order to produce certain election returns in his possession, is guilty of contempt and rightly imprisoned by order of the Assembly Committee. The Democrats of course have already fallen to abusing the Judge in the most outrageous style. All the same, Dalton will probably have to go to jail or produce the returns. Under these circumstances it does not seem to much to hope that the General Assembly of Ohio will be able, final, to do justice to the men, both the elected and the electors, who were elected out of their rights by Democratic fraud.

It is out of sorts with headache, stomach disorder, torpid liver, pain in back or side, constipation, etc., need not be told. One dose of Bureau's Sensitive Pills will give relief. A few doses restore to new health and vigor.

-Mr. J. Blevens closed a successful term of school at Corning last Friday. The spring term will commence Monday with Miss Maggie Workman of this city, as teacher.
